

Raincoast

Spring arrives, returns without blame. A warm smile

The morning knows a secret and isn't telling you

Small hands, open skies, something we forgot to name

Through dust, cheap light and broken dreams

The ocean glows with borrowed light. Slick, silky; smoke you can't hold

Watching birds sing, the water trembles

Scattered fragrant blooms, something's always there, breaking it up

Black earth stirring beneath your toes, keeping time

Smelling cool rocks, fuming on a foggy milky bay

Red, green, pink unfold in liquorice music, for the eyes only

Spring arrived, her kindness framed. A warm smile
